	for Trade and Reconstruction. They hoped to enroll other important Austrian officials as members of the Chamber.
	Comment: Theplane for establishing such a Chamber of Commerce will probably prove unsuccessful. At any rate, it is not anticipated that the Chamber will be formed in the near future. The Russians have been promising for some time to furnish a list of names of the Russian members of the proposed Chamber. This list of names has been submitted on several occasions to Moscow for approval, but no reply has yet been received.) Soviet economic representatives make no secret of their unwillingness to assist Austria in economic matters as long as the Austrian Government maintains its "pro-Western" orientation. They prefer to arrange contracts directly with Austrian firms in the Russian Zone and have no intention of using ministerial channels. Relationships between Russian authorities and Austrian representatives of the economic ministries, while courteous on the surface, are extremely limited and provide no meeting ground for mutual cooperation. Plans for the creation of a joint committee composed of Austrian and Russian representatives which would deal with economic matters
